if (ch == " " || ch == "\r" || ch == "\n" || ch == "\t") break; result.append(ch); } } } return result.toString(); } Solution uses the following approach Uses the toLowerCase() method to convert input string to lower case Uses the split() method to create an array of strings which contain the words separated by space The while loop in which the loop variable is used to check if the current string is empty or not is used to capture the words The result.join() method is used to join array of words into a single String Note: In addition to above solution a simple solution can be given with the use of StringBuilder Solution with StringBuilder StringBuilder stringBuilder = new StringBuilder(); for (int i = 0; i In our never-ending quest to stay on top of the latest trends and technology, we recently got our hands on the Microsoft Lumia 550. What we saw on the outside was fairly familiar – the typical faux-leather, faux-rubber, plastic-y shell that we have come to expect from Microsoft's budget phones. As for the inside, I could probably spend days writing about the hardware specs, but I won't. All the details are in this post – take a look at the specs and you'll see why I made that choice. I will use this post to discuss Windows Phone

What's New in the Adobe Photoshop CC 2014?

Ireland: Public Statements Made by Clíodhna Shannahan, Minister of Health (2/11/08) On the second day of the Forum: Now that this meeting is finished, I wish to say a few words on behalf of the Department of Health and Children regarding the Interim Decision taken by the Minister and her Deputies for the inspection of residential care services. I am grateful that it was the Minister, the Ombudsman and his Deputies and myself, and the Chair of the Forum, Mr Parr, who all sat down together with the CEO of Mater Misericordiae University Hospital, Mr Scattergood, and the Chief Executive, Mr Fennell, and the Chief Executive, Mr Ramsay, of the National Care Group (NCG), to consider the position of the residents and to ensure that the needs of residents will not be overlooked. The entire Forum was together at the meeting and actively participated. The Minister for Health and the Ombudsman reported that this meeting had been very informative, but also that the New Deal was still very fragile and we need to bear this in mind while moving forward with the processes. They pointed out that one of the fundamental changes in the New Deal is that nurses in residential care have always been employed by the private care providers. There has been no nursing staff employed on a locum basis in these institutions until now, and this is a fundamental change to the structures of the New Deal. They encouraged both the Commissioner and his Department to work in close collaboration with the NCG and residential care sector to implement the changes that will assist in placing the New Deal on a firmer footing. Mr Scattergood reported that he had taken the opportunity to highlight the impact of the New Deal on Dublin, his constituency. He referred to the fact that a group of students with experience of residential care in Dublin had been transferred to care services outside the greater Dublin area. The feedback from the care homes in Dublin was that that transfer had been a complete disaster. The students said that the care homes were inadequate to cope with their needs, and some had even reported a very high number of deaths. All of the students said that they had to work very hard to be able to carry out their duties while in the care homes. One of them said that they were being made to play board games at night while others said that they were so tired that they could not complete the practical tasks. They also said that they were so under-resourced that
