Michael Sugar Michael Sugar (October 18, 1954 – March 24, 2009) was a novelist who specialized in historical mystery, usually set in the Victorian era. He also wrote the Hugo Award-winning Unsolved Mysteries of the Mind. He was born in Glens Falls, New York on October 18, 1954. He studied English at the State University of New York at New Paltz, where he earned his BA in 1976. His first novel, The Arabian Nights Murders, was published in 1995 by Houghton Mifflin. Since then he has written ten more novels, as well as short stories, essays, and poems, many of which have been republished in the US and UK. He worked for 15 years as a computer programmer and for a time as a writer for the computer games company Sierra, writing software and creating and programming scenarios for the popular adventure game series Leisure Suit Larry. In addition to writing, Sugar was an accomplished musician, taking a Masters of Fine Arts degree in Jazz Composition at New York University, where he studied piano, composition and arranging with pianist Bill Evans. He performed with the Jazz Composer's Orchestra, and also performed with the NY Jazz Composers Orchestra. For many years, he played bass with his blues band the Millbrooks, which performed regularly in New York and New England. He co-authored the music for Unsolved Mysteries of the Mind, an audio recording of mystery questions for players of the L.A. Law video game. His novel The Unfortunates of New Babylon was named a finalist for the 2004 Anthony Award for best historical novel. In an interview on BookFlix he discussed the difficulties of writing historical novels due to the lack of primary sources. "The problem is that when you try to find primary sources for a period as complex and stratified and nuanced as the Victorian period, in which, as it happens, the state, press, and police operated according to their own standards and principles, there aren't very many. The trouble is, there isn't anything... So there is a real deficit in the source material." Michael Sugar died on March 24, 2009 at the age of fifty-seven from a heart attack. He was working on a novel before his death and had plans to embark on a project entitled "The Marvels of Victorian London" to explore events and trends in the city during the Victorian era.
